A strenuous protest came from Topland, and the protest that Liberals had been deprived of their rights, and that in fact the delegates were not elected. It was admitted they represent the polls in proportion to their numbers. For this reason an official censor George Smith was appointed, who used to be a Liberal, but was asked to resign to correct the errors made. With the exception of Fort Aspinwall all the polls were given ample time to regularize their delegates and no effort was made to correct the irregularities. This month had 3.24 inches of rainfall showing that ordinarily rain does not lower temperature but that a wet month may have a higher average temperature than a dry one. July 1961 is recorded as a month of high rainfall with 11.18 inches in 2 years yet the mean temperature was only one-half of one degree below the average temperature for that period. On the other hand a very dry month seldom has a high mean temperature.

A high mean temperature generally indicates that there has been no low temperature, which is a standard.

The annual mean temperature for a year was 37 degrees Fahrenheit. The highest this year 82 degrees on June 25. 55 degrees was the lowest temperature during the night of June 26th. During this month the maximum temperature was 83 degrees. The Dominion experimental farm

Lethbridge now keeps complete records showing the amount of moisture taken up by evaporation.

Carpentier's Clever Boxing No Match For Smashing, Man-Killing Methods Of Jack Who Fought in Usual Manner

FRENCHMAN SUFFERED BROKEN THUMB AND SPRAINED WRIST DURING ATTACK IN SECOND

Defeated Challenger Received Wonderful Ovation When He Left the Ring, the Tremendous Crowd Giving Vociferous Tribute to His Gamesness and Boxing Skill—Dempsey Ran True to His Fighting Form at All Stages of the Fight

NEW YORK, July 3.—Jack Dempsey is still heavyweight pugilist champion of the world. A crushing right swing from his face shattered the "knockout" aspirations of George Carpentier, the fourth challenger, in the "battle of the century" here Saturday afternoon. The pile driving, blood-soaked fight, upon the jaw of the Frenchman, forcing him to the back of the ring in a trifle more than a minute of fighting in the fourth and decisive round.

Carpentier had staggered to his feet after the initial knockdown, but was unable to survive the onslaught of the champion, who was motivated by the fiery Dr. Jekyll of the ten counts. The knockout punch was driven to Carpentier's jaw by the Dempsey's right hand, which had been protected by a constant bombardment of blows which landed on every section of the Frenchman's body.

Each swing, high and uppercut, scored to the stomach, ribs and sides, crushed the ribs and produced the sprain of the wrist. The Frenchman's physical and mental makeup and he was therefore unable to carry on the strenuous attack.

It developed after Carpentier had returned to his training camp at Manhattan, N.Y., that the Frenchman was unable to carry on the fight. The Frenchman had broken his right thumb and sprained his wrist. Carpentier was unable to explain the failure occurred but it is thought that it came as a result of a hard swing which landed high on Dempsey's head.

What effect, if any, this injury to the European challenger's most effective fighting tool had on the ultimate outcome of the battle is impossible to estimate. Carpentier was almost entirely ineffective in the third and fourth rounds, although he did not noticeably avoid using his right hand in boxing or in the clinch. He was unable to land a single blow on Dempsey's head. Regardless of which way caused the vanquishing of Carpentier, the Frenchman gave a real exhibition of skill and endurance. He was a heavy, but puny, fighter. The favorite when he entered the ring, he was the only one of the crowd to be left in the arena, with a greater amount of applause ringing in his ears, a tribute to an exhibition which he had given in the ring which had preceded him.

He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion. He was a good fighter, but he was not a champion.

Dempsey, as the winner, ran true to fighting form. He never at any time showed up or showed a disposition to trade blows with his opponent. He was a champion in the way of opportunity and devoted as much of his attention as was possible to the fight. He was a champion in the way of opportunity and devoted as much of his attention as was possible to the fight.

ALGARY CALLIES DEFEAT EDMONTON VETS ONE TO NIL

Calgary Callies defeated the Edmonton Veterans at Calgary Saturday by a score of one to nil in the Comstock cup contest. The game was played in a steady downpour of rain which prevented any kind of football being played, and which made the contest anything but a demonstration of ability. Under the conditions, neither team could play football and the result was largely a matter of chance. Fortune favored the Calgary side.

CARPENTIER IS STILL IN RING FOR MORE BOUTS

Would Welcome Bout With Tommy Gibbons—Admits Dempsey Is His Superior

MANHATTAN, July 3.—George Carpentier will not retire from the ring as a result of his defeat by Dempsey. He will fight any man in the world excepting the champion, whom he admits is his superior. This statement was made today by Dempsey's manager, who said that Carpentier, "that Jack Dempsey is the greatest heavyweight who ever lived. But now is a challenge for the world's champion. We would like to get a match with him at the favorable moment."

The broken bone in George's right hand is not today and he is still swollen and inflamed. The only other mark of consequence is a cut under his left eye, which was made by a blow from Dempsey's right hand. He read several newspaper accounts of the fight and expressed his delight at the favorable comment.

He said that he was not a quitter and that he would fight any man in the world excepting the champion, whom he admits is his superior.
